1934 DAWNS WITH HOPEFUL OUTLOOK

MARLIN BANK BANDITS ESCAPE THROUGH MILAM CO.

Pair Who Took $41,000 Release Cashier and Clerks at Val Verde

Leaving their captives trussed to trees in the gathering darkness near Val Verde in Milam county, Wednesday evening, the bandit pair who robbed the First State Bank of Marlin of $41,000 in currency early Wednesday morning, escaped in the night leaving no trace of their course westward.

M. V. Bradshaw, vice president of the bank; Miss Andrew Peyton, Bookkeeper and Lee Humphrey, negro porter, kidnapped by the bandits, were tied to trees on the Hall farm near Val Verde south of Rogers. Lee and Jack Davis, possum hunting were also tied to trees when they came upon the bandits in the pasture. All captives were finally liberated and made their way to Rogers.

Notified immediately of the Robbery, Sheriff Blaylock and Deputies Will Vaughn and Ray Robinson, covered the Ben Arnold highway as a possible route for the bandits.

The bandit pair driving a Ford V-8 sedan are believed to have passed through Rosebud, turning west to Westphalia and going through the Meeks country intersected the Temple highway north of Buckholts and turned south to the River near Val Verde.

"Footlight Parade"

Here are Ruby Keeler, Jimmy Cagney and Joan Blondell, the trio of great stars in "Footlight Parade," to play for two days at the Cameron Theatre, Thursday and Friday, January 4 and 5.

MIERTSCHEN QUITS AS THORNDALE CONSTABLE

E. A. Miertschin, for many years constable at Thorndale, has resigned from office, his resignation having been filed filed with County Judge Jeff T. Kemp.

A successor to Mr. Miertschin, in all probability, will be named at the forthcoming session of the Commissioners court.

Complaint was filed against Mr. Miertschin following the death of Henry James, high school youth at Thorndale and brother of Representative Jesse James in September. He was charged in the complaint with being a accessory to the crime, failing to interfere to stop the attack made on James. The Grand Jury of Milam County did not indict Miertschin, however.

W. D. Burkhart, cafe owner at Thorndale, was convicted for the murder of James and given 45 years in prison by a jury in District Court at Georgetown.

FIVE KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR CALVERT

Five men were killed shortly after midnight Wednesday at Calvert when a Missouri Pacific freight train left the tracks following a collision with live stock.

R. J. Delhomme, 48, engineer; Fred Wallace, 45, fireman and Otis Green, 47, brakeman, all of Mart, and two unidentified hoboes, were killed, their bodies being taken from the wreck when the engine and 8 cars left the rails.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cecil Culpepper and Winston Culpepper are visiting relatives in Poplarville, Miss.

GENE SMITH CANDIDATE FOR CITY MARSHAL

Gene Smith, widely known citizen, peace officer and former city marshal, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for City Marshall of Cameron, subject to action of the February city Democratic Primary election in 1934.

Responding to numerous requests and offers of support, Mr. Smith says he has been encouraged to offer for the office and submits his candidacy based upon his ability to serve in this place and the record he has made in the past.

His friends in the city will be pleased to know that he is to be a candidate. Mr. Smith will not have a formal platform but pledges the people of Cameron that if he is elected they will have in that office a champion of their rights and protection and declares he will do all in his power to render a worthwhile public service.

Mr. Smith, a native Texan, was born at Lockhart, not far from the Del Sol made famous by Emerson Hough in his book "North of 36." He grew up in the atmosphere of the cattle ranges, living for a time in historic old Gonzales, moving with his father and family to Bell county when 17 years of age. He rode the ranges and in him is deep rooted the traditions of Texas pioneer days. His career as a peace officer has been marked by the brand of courage around which many stories of danger and adventure have been woven by novelists who picked from the galaxy of Southwestern heroes their famous book characters. His friends believe nothing need be said to acquaint the people with his readiness under any and all circum-

Two More Gubernatorial Candidates

CLINT SMALL

COKE STEVENSON

Here are two men who may have much to do with the outcome of the next election of a Texas governor. Small, state senator from the Amarillo district, has already announced his candidacy. Stevenson, present speaker of the Texas house of representatives, has not yet announced that he will enter the race, but political minds see his hat in the ring in the near future.

ROY LAW WILL NOT RUN FOR RE-ELECTION

Roy Law, tax collector for Milam county, whose present term, when completed, will have served 10 years in that office, will not be a candidate in the 1932 primary election. In a statement prepared for publication and addressed to the Editor here Wednesday, Mr. Law announces his retirement from office at the end of his present term. Mr. Law has gained wide recognition over Texas for his work in this office, having served as President of the Tax Collectors Association of the State. His retirement from this office will remove from public service one of the most popular and efficient men ever to hold a place in the service of the government in the history of the county.

Mr. Law's letter is as follows:

Cameron, Texas, Dec. 27th, 1933

Mr. J. B. White, Editor,
Cameron Herald,
Cameron, Texas.
Dear Sir:--

I would thank you to make known through the columns of your paper the fact that after careful and mature consideration I have determined that I shall not be a candidate for the office of Tax Assessor and Collector of Milam County in the elections next year.

As the New Year dawns I think it fitting and proper that I make the above statement. After having reached the decision and especially in view of the fact that the newly created office of Assessor and Collector of taxes for Milam County presents a place of responsibility, the magnitude of which has never been known in the history of our system of taxation, do I deem it prudent and wise to announce my intention not to offer for the place.

My friends all over Milam County have been so unusually kind and gracious to me that words fail to in any measure express my appreciation and certainly no man could begin to enumerate the things for which I have to be thankful. My keen sense of gratitude impels me to say that I hope and trust I may be so blessed as to be able to live a long and useful life of helpful service among my friends who have been and are to me the most highly treasured possession any man could claim.

Thanking you for this kindness and with sincere feeling I assure you in this moment of my constant appreciation for the innumerable kindnesses you have shown me during my term of service in the Tax Collector's office which the people of this county have so graciously entrusted to my care and keeping for these years and which I shall return to them unspoiled at the end of my present term.

Sincerely yours,
ROY LAW,
Cameron, Texas.

Mae West Grand In New Film, "I'm No Angel," At Cameron January 7th and 8th

Mae West, who "scorched" the nation with her first starring picture, "She Done Him Wrong," became a national idol, and then took Paris by storm and revolutionized feminine styles comes back to town next week with her new picture "I'm No Angel." It opens for a two day run at the Cameron Theatre Sunday and Monday, January 7 and 8.

From every stndpoint, "I'm No Angel" is a better picture than its predecessor. Miss West is even more colorful as Tira, the Million Dollor Beauty, who tames savage lions and men with equal facility,

Roosevelt Administration Leads Way to Recovery

The New Year dawns with a hopeful outlook for Cameron and trade territory.

There are unmistakable signs of recovery and underlying the upturn in business is the strength and encouraging program of the Roosevelt administration in Washington.

Featuring the year replete with striking efforts has been the recovery program touching every phase of life in America.

Renewal of employment and increase in buying power brought about by readjustment of values brought a good finish out of an otherwise doleful year.

Prospective successful stabilization of cotton for 1934 through areage and production control gives promise of immediate prosecution of farm programs, all of which has had a heartening effect on business and credits. Business men in Cameron were uniform in their praise of the Roosevelt administration, the helpful influences of which are reflected in increased business and fairly good liquidation.

Home and farm owners have been aided and encouraged to proceed with normal expectations and there is every indication that although without sensational advances, conditions will become more normal as the months pass by in 1934.

Full effect of the recovery program was not expected to be felt until after the dawn of the New Year. Chief among the immediate benefits has been the revival of trade and the consequent advance in farm commodities.

Relief has avoided suffering and public work has stimulated buying power through pay roll circulation of funds.

W. A. (BILL) MORRISON FOR CITY ATTORNEY

W. A. (Bill) Morrison, member of the Cameron Bar, and native citizen, is a candidate for City Attorney of Cameron, subject to the February, 1934, City Democratic Primary.

Announcement that he would seek the nomination for this place at the coming primary, was given Cameron newspapers on Wednesday. He has had the matter under advisement for some time and in making his announcement, has the support of a large number of friends who have encouraged him to make the race.

Mr. Morrison, son of the late W. A. Morrison, noted lawyer and member of the State Board of Education, was admitted to the Bar some years ago and has been active in law pratice, being associated with his father and since conducting his own law offices here.

He was born and reared in Cameron and is known to the people of this city. His friends believe that he is worthy and well qualified for the place he seeks and Mr. Morrison in making his announcement requests the statement that he will give his entire time to the affairs of the city's legal department, as required, and solicits the vote and support of the people of Cameron. His friends urge that his experience and ability commend him to the earnest consideration of the voters for this nomination.

Mr. Morrison plans to make an active canvas for this office and calls upon his friends everywhere in the city to lend their support, pledging his efforts in advance to merit the confidence of the people in terms of faithful and loyal service.

This new mammoth spectacle is said to far surpass its predecessors in the originality and beauty of its ensembles, in its hilarious comedy drama plot, its songs and its romantic love interest. The screen play by Manuel Seff and James Seymour is a story of back stage life, but entirely different from anything before screened. It deals with a young musical comedy director who loses his job when talking pictures supplant

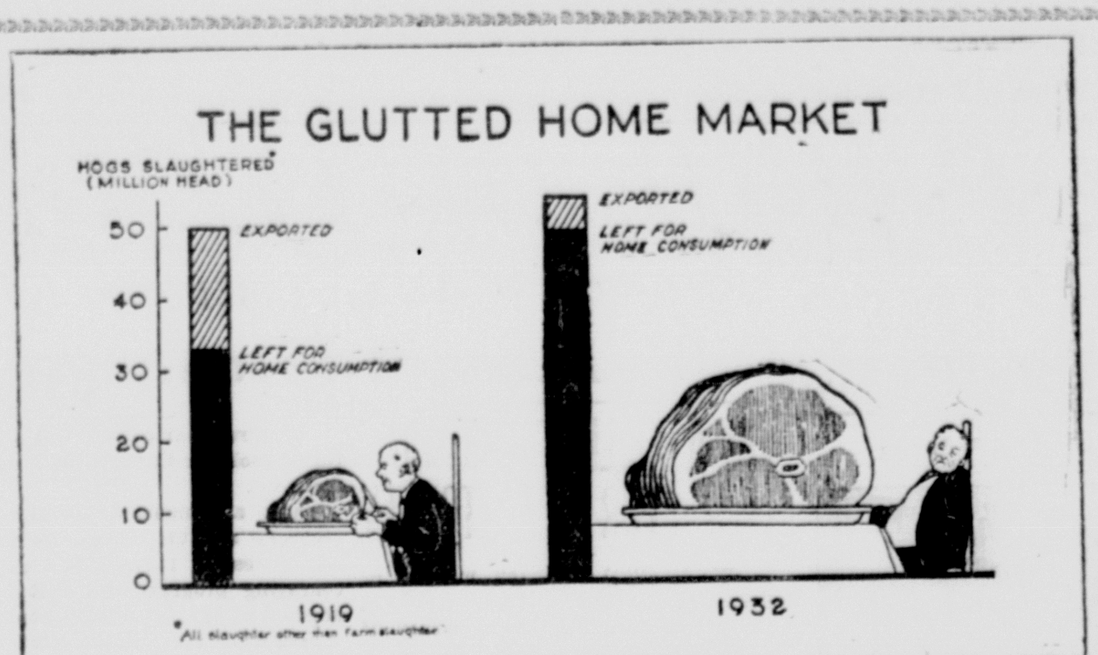
HEFLEY-DOSSETT, INSURANCE



HOG production in the United States has increased at about the same rate as our population, but the quantity of hog products available for home consumption has increased materially because of a severe decline in our exports since the World War. The American people recently have been eating around 14 percent more pork and lard than they did in the pre war period, and they are now eating a higher percent of the total production of hogs than 20 years ago. However, this excess of hog products in the home market has depressed hog prices. The recent increased consumption is a reflection of the comparatively low prices at which the pork had to move, rather than of any substantial pick-up in consumer requirements or preference for hog products. A more moderate hog production would eliminate the excess on the home market and would result in a higher price per hundredweight and a larger tota. return from the whole hog crop. This the corn-hog plan of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration seeks to bring about by adjusting production to present-day needs.

Building of Airplanes in U. S. Shows Decrease

Washington.—Six hundred and sixty-nine airplanes were manufactured in the United States during the first six months of 1933, according to Ewing Y. Mitchell, assistant secretary of commerce for aviation.

Of this number, 306 were built for domestic civil use, 212 for military delivery, and 151 for delivery to foreign countries.

The 1933 figure is a decrease as compared with the number for the first half of 1932, when 722 planes were produced. The biggest drop was in the number of planes for military use, 325 being produced for military purposes in the 1932 period. A drop also was noted in the domestic civil use figure, 351 having been built for this class in the 1932 period, while the figure then for foreign shipment was only 46, showing a sharp rise for the 1933 figures.

Of the planes built the first half of this year for domestic and civil use were included 215 monoplanes, 84 biplanes and seven autogiros.

Atlantic Fish Found in Waters of Pacific

Portland, Ore.—A lancet fish, denizen of the Atlantic ocean, was found swimming in the surf along the Oregon coast and captured bare-handed by Charles W. Farnsworth.

The fish was 4½ feet long and has a dorsal sail-like fin three feet long It has large eyes and exceedingly long, sharp teeth.

How it found its way into northern Pacific waters is a mystery, as it is rarely found in the Pacific, except off the Mexican and Japanese coasts.

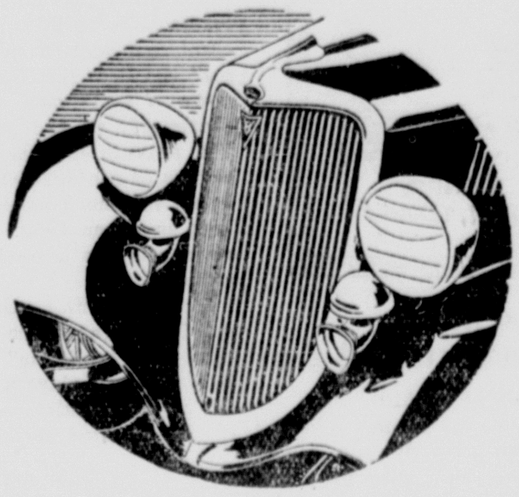
Let the car speak for itself



HUNDREDS of thousands of people now own and drive Ford V-8 cars. Some neighbor or friend of yours has one. If we told you what we think of the car, you might say we are prejudiced, so we let the car and its owner tell you.

Economy of operation is one of the first points they will emphasize—the owner will boast of it and the car will prove it.

The 1934 car is even better than the 1933—and that was our best car up to its time. The new car is more beautiful—faster—more powerful—gives more miles to the gallon—better oil economy—is easier riding—cheaper to own and operate than any car we ever built.

You owe it to yourself and your pocketbook to ask our Ford Dealer to let you see this car, and let you drive it for yourself. At the wheel of the car you will be sure to reach a right decision. The Ford V-8 will tell you its own story.

A New Year and New Hope

The year 1933 is now history. Upon its scroll are inscribed for Time the records of us all.

Notwithstanding its problems and hardships, and aside from the desire of all to turn its page and leave it to the book of ages, looking ahead to the New Year with renewed Hope, it brought many happy days.

There are the remembrances of friends without whom life would be sordid indeed. There are the recollections of greater Faith and Co-operation and the foundation for better days and the New Deal, for all of which we are thankful.

Because I feel especially grateful for the kind treatment of 1933, I send to each one, as we stand on the threshold of the New Year, my profoundest thanks and Good Wishes, strongly desiring for each one the Year's most bountiful blessings.

Christmas Dinner On a Battleship

By Charles Frederick Wadsworth

MR. AND MRS. BLANK, let us say, are having some of their kinfolks for Christmas dinner, on a farm, ranch or plantation, or in a cottage somewhere in America.

The conversation turns to a boy of the neighborhood who is in the navy.

"I wonder what Frank is doing today," wonders Uncle George.

"And what he is having for Christmas dinner," Aunt Josie speculates.

"Navy beans and sowbelly, I betcha," opines Grandpa, who served in the Civil war.

"Let's see," says Pa. "Frank's on a battleship, isn't he?"

"Yes, it's the Arkansas." This information from Ma.

"Then he'll have a swell feed," comments little Bill, who reads a lot and thinks maybe he will join the navy himself some day.

Just to satisfy the curiosity of Pa and Ma Blank, Aunt Josie, Uncle George, Grandma, Grandpa, little Bill, and the neighbors generally, suppose we all step into the quartermaster's office on the U. S. S. Arkansas and sit at a mahogany desk with Chief Commissary Steward Jimmy East and find out all about what the boys on a battleship have to eat at Christmas time.

"First," says Chief Jimmy, as he takes out his fountain pen and reaches for a sheet of letter paper with "U. S. S. Arkansas" printed at the top, "I'll give you the menu we served last Christmas."

Here it is:

MENU

Celery Hearts Olives Sweet Pickles
Fruit Cocktail
Cream of Tomato Soup
Saltines
Roast Young Turkey
Oyster Dressing
Cranberry Sauce Giblet Gravy
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
Cauliflower Candied Sweet Potatoes
Butter Sauce
Hot Finger-Rolls
Tomato and Lettuce Salad
Thousand Island Dressing
Assorted Fruits Nuts Hard Candy
Hot Mince Pie
Ice Cream
Chocolate Cake Coffee
Cigars and Cigarettes

"That dinner," says Chief Jimmy, "was served to the crew of 1,100, at a cost of $1.10 per man. In addition, the crew had as guests 200 orphans and other needy children."

"Is that customary?" Chief Jimmy was asked.

"Yes, the crews of ships in port make that a regular practice," was the reply. "Last Christmas the Arkansas was in port at San Diego."

It was suggested that the quantities of food required for Christmas dinner on a battleship might astonish some of the folks "back home."

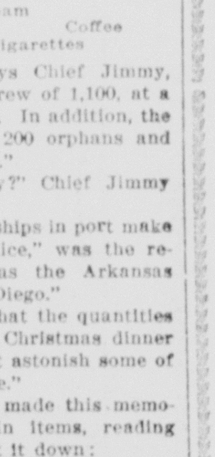
And Chief Jimmy made this memorandum of the main items, reading each aloud as he put it down:

Celery, 400 lbs.; olives, 20 gals.; canned tomatoes, 150 lbs.; crackers, 200 lbs.; turkey, 1,200 lbs.; cranberries, 300 lbs.; Irish Potatoes, 600 lbs.; sweet potatoes, 600 lbs.; green peas, 200 lbs.; cauliflower, 300 lbs.; hot rolls, 2,400; ham, 400 lbs.; lettuce, 200 lbs.; fresh fruit, 1,200 lbs.; nuts, 300 lbs.; candy, 500 lbs.; pies, 200; ice cream, 40 gals.; cigars, 1,100; cigarettes, 1,100 pkgs.; coffee, 100 lbs.

At this point Grandma might well have exclaimed: "My gracious! Six hundred pounds of Irish potatoes! It would take a week to peel them!"

"How about that, Chief? Do you have any labor-saving devices in the galley?" ("Kitchen" to landlubbers.)

"Oh, yes," says Chief Jimmy. "The potatoes are peeled by power peelers, of which we have two, each with a capacity of a hundred-pound sack in approximately five minutes. But the boys dig out the eyes with paring knives in the good old-fashioned way. We also have eight navy standard oil-burning ranges, and twelve steam boilers, each of sixty-gallon capacity, for vegetables and so forth. The meal is prepared under my direction by twenty ship's cooks and eight bakers. Fifty-five mess men serve it."



"Of course you serve a good quality of everything?"

"Only the very best," says Chief Jimmy. "Besides the regular government inspection, all foodstuffs are again inspected at ship-side, and any offering that is not up to specifications goes right back!"

And there you have the story of a Christmas dinner aboard one of Uncle Sam's battleships.

A Midland, Texas, ranch man, figures at current prices half a ton of cowhides are required to buy a pair of shoes. The calves must be grown, have up their lives, be skinned and then sell their skins for 30c. Then the hide is processed, a few tacks, or thread, cardboard and canvas added by a worker getting 20c to 40c per hour, the shoes packed into a nice box, wrapped with tissue paper, placed on the shelves, sold, shipped, unpacked by the retailer, sold oftimes on credit and never paid for, and all this loss must be made up by somebody so the rancher who grew the calf, sold the hide and lost money must come in again as a pinch hitter and help stay off the day when the manufacturer and merchant will go broke for their pains—or is it to add other pains to what they had already? Let us hope that somewhere down the long, long road there is a day coming when all these inequalities will be smoothed out and the grower will get something for his (rather his calf's) hide, the processor something for the suffering he must endure in the ill-smeling barnyard, the shoemaker something for his labor, the factory something for its investment, the transportation system something for its part and last but not least, the merchant will get something for his invaluable service.—Georgetown Sun.

musicals on the stage and turns to making prologues for motion picture theatres on a wholesale scale.

There is a definite and well knit plot with riotously funny situations and sparkling comedy. Two teams of players furnish the love interest played by James Cagney and Joan Blondell and Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell with Claire Dodd and Renee Whitney as the gold digging, dangerous damsels. A quartet of famous comedians furnish a large part of the hilarity. They are Frank McHugh as the dance director, Guy Kibbe the theatrical magnate, Ruth Donnelly as his wife and Hugh Herbert the company's milkop censor. Others in the cast include such noted players as Gordon Westcott, Arthur Hohl, Philip Faversham, Barbara Rogers, Juliet Ware, Paul Porcasi, Herman Bing, Charles Wilson and William Granger.

Two of the big surprises in this vast production are the singing and dancing of Cagney, who really started his career as a hoofer.

Four gigantic musical numbers which he states surpass anything he has yet done are staged by Busby Berkley who created and staged the ensembles for both "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933."

Carl Deadwyler of Waco joined his wife in Cameron for Christmes day and were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sapp.

Miss Minnie Wolf who teaches school in Dallas is here for a visit with her family during the holidays.

83 Per Cent of Farm Families Reached By Work of Home Demonstration Agent

Eighty-three per cent of the farm families of Milam county were reached in 1933 through the work of the Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Bertha Fae Strange, and her clubs, as shown by her annual report submitted last week.

The report, a document of some length, is not reproduced in detail due to lack of space. Her work has been successful and club demonstration clubs have achieved the best record in the history of the work in the county.

The report sets out in detail the accomplishments of each division. Women's Home Demonstration Clubs from gardens produced and preserved, 30,193 pounds of food with a money value of $6521.

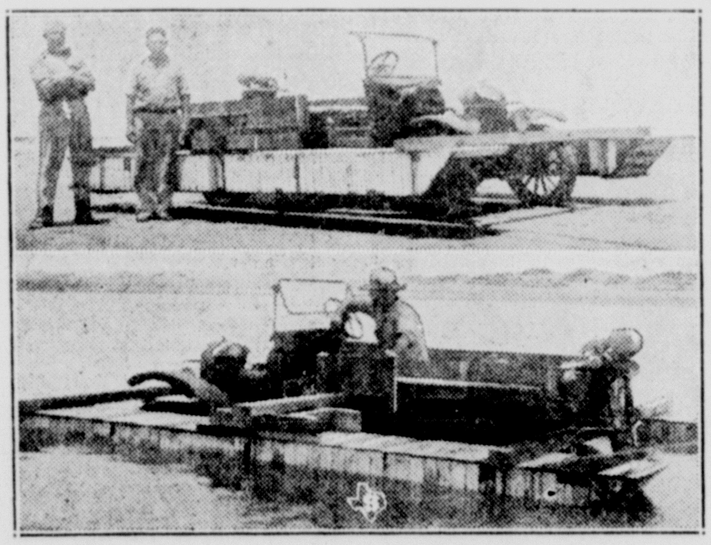
The 4-H Pantry Conservation Food Clubs preserved 123,983 containers of food valued at $37,510.

Improvements in homes totaled $1204. The work for the year touched a wide phase of subjects. The clubs financed the year book, prizes for the meat show and a turkey grading school. Trees and shrubs have been planted in hundreds of plots on the farms as well as fruit trees and 1927 families have been aided by club members.

There have been preserved for eating 70,000 pounds of meat, 55,000 pounds of dry fruit, 867 pounds of cheese and 10,000 pounds of lard. The grand total of these foods are 123,983 pounds and their value fixed at $26,483.

Preservation of food through RFC funds with seven canning centers produced 40,000 containers of food for relief work.

Necessity Invents Queer Land-Water Car



Necessity is the mother of invention, as the case of Mr. Vincent Stevenson of Brownsville and his "land schooner" proves beyond doubt. The roaring waves of fall storms along the lower Texas coast were not all bad. They moved whole schools of fish and made Padre island one of the finest fishing beaches on the Gulf. How to get to it was the necessity, and Stevenson's invention is pictured above. On land, it is a regular auto; on water it chugs along like an outboard motor boat. Bays or beaches, it doesn't matter, Stevenson goes about his business of fishing without trouble in this queer contraption.

The many friends of C. N. Green will be glad to hear that he is reported to be much improved from his recent illness and expects to soon be out again.

than she was in the diamond bedecked Lady Lou. Paramount has given the second production of its greatest star an excellent cast, smart direction and gilded mounting.

Mae sings seven "scorch songs," dances the midway, as a remarkable dance in which she moves everything except her feet puts her head in a lion's mouth; utters a succession of breezy wisecracks which probably will be heard everywhere, as was "come up and see me sometime"—until another West picture brings us some more Westicisms.

"I'm No Angel" is a superior picture to "She Done Him Wrong" because it is written directly for the film by Miss West. It takes her on a magnificent journey from a dancer in a cheap carnival show to national fame as a gorgeous Tira, the Million Dollar Beauty, courted by society men.

Since Miss West has set the winter fashion mode, it should be duly chronicled here that in "I'm No Angel" she does not wear the extreme gown of yesteryear, as she did so charmingly in her previous picture. She appears in smartly modish clothes of the day—that is when she is not making a handsome appearance in silken tights—and she always presents a luscious, eye-filling picture.

Her supporting cast is well chosen. Cary Grant, who was her "tall, dark and handsome" in "She Done Him Wrong," plays a similar role in the new attraction, and gives his customary good performance.

Live Bird Adorned Their Kitchen Christmas Tree

"IT SEEMED," said Ansel Doane, "kind of mean to leave him there all by his lonesome."

"But good land of love," scolded his wife, "what in the world will you do with him?"

Ansel peered anxiously between his fingers into the palm of a great, horny hand. Sitting there, confused, all in a lump of wetness, was a small bird. His eyes darted here and there, but he did not offer to struggle. "I'm a-goin' to warm him a bit, and let him get his bearin's, and feed him, and then see what he wants to do."

Mrs. Doane pretended much scorn, but she went many times to look into the box with cotton her husband had fixed. There the bird sat, resting, too tired to flutter out.

"It's Christmas Eve, ain't it?" asked Ansel. "It would be a pity if we couldn't help a little mite who doesn't ask nothin' but to live, and take care of itself when it can." He gave him a crumb of bread; softly he stroked the wet wing with his big finger. "I found him a-settin' all hunched up on the church railin'. The rain was a-freezin' on his feathers. If we'd help a sailor in trouble . . . why not a wee thing like this? Birds," Ansel frowned, trying to arrange his thoughts, "are just as lovin' to the Lord, as humans, and likely just as important. I admire the spunky little things. I admire 'em a heap."

Later in the evening when the small tree was set up in the corner, the new visitor, being warmed and fed, stepped from his box and flew over to it. There on a branch-tip he rocked and gave a few cheerful cheeps. "There, what did I tell you?' cried the delighted Ansel. "He's a right smart little feller. And he's wishin' us Merry Christmas or I'm a sinner!"

"Maybe he is," agreed Mrs. Doane. "Kind of cute, having a real bird in a tree in your own kitchen!"—Maybelle Martin.

How Cardui Helps Women

"Mal-nutrition" means that your body is not getting enough to keep it up, so that what it has to do is not done well. You may not be eating enough to keep up the work of the body, or there may be something wrong that keeps you from getting full value from the food you eat.

Because of mal-nutrition, some women have aches and pains every month. Such pains should not be neglected.

Take Cardui to give you a better appetite, to give you more strength from the food you eat — to build up and increase your feeling of well-being. Aches and pains go away as you build up with the help of Cardui.

MRS. JOYNES SEEKING TO RETAIN ESTATE

The marital relations between Toy G. Woolley, 28, and Dorothy Joynes Woolley, 20, shot to death with a Christmas shotgun when she was a bride of two months, again will be brought into court in a contest of the administration of the slain girl's estate in Dallas.

P. P. Ballowe, attorney for Ralph Joynes, brother of Dorothy, said Monday when he filed a protest to the administration of her estate, filed the day after Toy G. Woolley was acquitted of a murder charge for the killing of his wife.

"We have protested the appointment of Ben D. Taylor as administrator," Mr. Ballowe said, "because he is a friend of Woolley's. We will 'ask that Ralph Joynes and his mother, Mrs. Esta Joynes, be appointed because they are the next of kin.'

This point raised by Mr. Ballowe for his clients will bring up again the question of whether the marriage of Woolley to Dorothy Joynes was legal. In the murder trial it was brought out that Woolley married her on Aug. 26, two days before he was formally divorced from his former wife, Miss Mae Cantrell, who appeared as a witness against him in the trial.

Will Delay Trial

It was also brought out in the trial by Woolley's attorney that though Woolley married Miss Joynes before his formal divorce from Miss Cantrell, if he acted in good faith in the belief he had been granted the divorce, he was guilty of no criminal offense. The jury that acquitted Woolley was so charged by Judge Noland G. Williams, before whom the trial was held.

The filing of the protest to the appointment of Mr. Taylor as administrator of the estate will delay the hearing, which was to have been held Tuesday before Judge Robert Ogden in County Probate Court.

Ralph Joynes said Monday he had just returned to the city after having gone away on business immediately after the closing of the trial in which he appeared as the final witness, declaring that his heartfelt hate for the man who had killed his sister.

Mr. J. F. Godfrey, sister of Woolley, and who appeared as a defense witness, said Monday she had not heard from her brother since the day the trial closed, when he left within a few hours for Lampkin, Comanche County, to recuperate from the strain under which he had labored during the ten days of the trial.

One of the contentions of the prosecution in the trial of Woolley was that when he married Dorothy Joynes in order that he might obtain the estate of approximately $10,000 in cash and an interest in several pieces of property.

Woolley Favored Taylor

The application for administration of the estate of Dorothy Joynes Woolley was filed by the Weever Funeral Home, which asked the appointment of Benjamin D. Taylor as administrator.

Mr. Taylor was the appointee favored by Mr. Woolley at conferences a few days after the shooting of his bride at the Woolley home, 5719 Ellsworth, East Dallas, on Nov. 5, according to testimony in the murder trial.

The application for administration of the estate estimated its worth at $5,000. Testimony in the trial showed existence of $6,000 cash in a trust fund, a bank account of some $300 and interests in real estate.

The funeral home showed the estate to be indebted to it for $1,037.50 for the casket, vault and cemetery lot and other funeral services. The application also shows a note of $25,00 against the estate to the Southwestern Life Insurance Company, and says other debts exist.

Muscovy Duck Believed Native of South America

The Muscovy duck is found wild in South America, and this is believed to be its original source or habitat. Experiments made by cross mating proved them to be a distinct breed, as the offspring of such matings proved to be sterile. They were formerly known as wild musk ducks and, occasionally, are called Brazilian ducks. They feed in marshes and low lands, but nest in high locations. The females are kind and tractable, and the males, under two years old, can be controlled, but when older they are cross with children. During the breeding season they will attack animals, and even persons who may trespass on their territory or disturb their mates.

There are colored and white Muscovys. The males are slightly larger than the females. The breeders require that the colored variety shall have pink bills shaded with dark or horn color; brown eyes; yellow shanks and toes, shaded with dark—sometimes almost black; body plumage is lustrous black. The white Muscovy has a pinkish white bill, blue eyes, orange or yellow shanks and toes, and pure-white plumage.

About the head and face of Muscovy ducks is a distinctive mark like the carbuncles on the head of the turkey. This is most pronounced in the mature males. They have a growth of feathers on the top of the head, which they can elevate at will. It is said that they will continue to breed for twelve years or more.

Chalk Cliffs in Denmark Rise Straight From Sea

Geologically speaking, Denmark owes its existence to the mountains of Norway. Every stone in Denmark once was a tourist from Norway, arriving with the glaciers on a submarine reef of chalk and lime, until in a manner similar to the building of the Newfoundland sandbanks by the icebergs from Greenland, Denmark emerged.

This fact explains one of the most beautiful sights in the country—coasts of fantastic chalk formation in many places. The grandest of these formations is Moens Klint, and described as "the gem of Denmark." This is a range of white chalk cliffs 400 feet high and about five miles in length rising straight from the sea. The top is forest clad and extends in places to deep gorges which split up the masses of chalk, making points and pinnacles of weird loveliness, everywhere. The union of white chalk, green trees and vegetation and blue sea is most picturesque, especially if you view the whole from a passing steamship, at the hour of the setting sun.

It has now stood for thousands of years, but from time to time large masses go back to the sea, as when the well-known "Queen's Chair" formation fell in 1868, making a temporary island off the coast about 700 feet long, which has since disappeared.

Smallest Fly Biggest Enemy

Of the insect pests that have proven themselves enemies of man some are remarkably small for the damage they can do. Such is the case of the chalcid fly which, although the full grown insect is smaller than a single seed of clover or alfalfa, can cause serious trouble in a field of either of these crop plants. For each chalcid fly egg is deposited in a seed of clover or alfalfa while the seed is still soft and green and the grub hatching from one of these eggs eats all of the soft juicy tissues with which it finds itself surrounded. It then uses the hollow shell of the seed as a shelter in which to pupate and does not emerge therefrom until it has gone through all the changes necessary for it to become a fully developed fly. This means that as soon as it leaves the seed in which it was hatched it is ready to start at once propagating its kind to the ruination of more seeds.

Statue of Man Resembles Many

The question of who was the sculptor's model, so often asked since the dedication of the Scottish-American war memorial in Edinburgh, Scotland, has been answered. At the sixth commemoration ceremony of the piece Dr. Tait McKenzie, the sculptor, explained that it is not the portrait of any individual, but an expression of the idealism of youth which gives a family likeness to people of varied lineage. To illustrate the universal trait depicted, it has been shown that a photograph in an American office is so much like the statue that it was believed to be that of the model. An American mother seeing the statue thought it was that of her son. A German doctor often journeys to Edinburgh to view what he declares to be a striking resemblance to his lost son. Others from other countries have seen a likeness to lost relatives.

The Word "Turkey"

The root word "turk," meaning "power" or "to arrive at maturity," is found in many languages from the Caucasus to China. The term "Turki" was used to designate those tribes speaking the Turkic languages. Chinese history records these warlike tribes as existing from 1400 B. C. onwards. They united and became independent about 550 A. D. The spelling "Turkey" is merely a corruption of "Turki." The fowl known as the turkey was so called because it was erroneously thought to have come from Turkey, although it was introduced into Europe from America in 1530.—Pathfinder Magazine.

UNDERPASS CONTRACT LET AT ROCKDALE

The State Highway Commission on Tuesday tabulated bids on the Rockdale underpass project, and awarded the contract to C. W. Gilfillan, of Austin, on a bid of $30,-171.65.

It is said that work will begin as soon as the contract is approved by the Federal Roads Bureau at Fort Worth. This approval is merely a matter of form and it is confidently expected that Gillifillin will begin the work some time during the month of January.

The project includes the building and surfacing of about one half mile of roadway, connecting Highway 43 and 44 in Rockdale, as told in a news story in this paper last week.—Rockdale Reporter.

Telling the Christmas Story

IT WAS Christmas Eve. Outside the snow was falling in great feathery flakes, turning the bleak winter landscape into a thing of beauty. It clung to the stretching arms of the trees; it covered roofs and lawns with a mantle of white.

"How beautiful!" Helen Marsdale whispered to herself, as she gazed out of the window. "A symbol of the cloak of happiness that the spirit of Christmas has flung around the world."

She turned at the sound of a word. "Mother, won't you read the Christmas story now, while we wait for Dad?" It was pretty, dark-haired Patsy who spoke, but in a minute the other children echoed her request.

Mrs. Marsdale sat down in the softly-lighted room. The very atmosphere of Christmas was there. Holly wreaths hung in the window, a Christmas candle was burning on the table, and a log fire blazing upon the hearth.

Opening the Bible at the second chapter of St. Luke, she began the beautiful story that has thrilled the world through the centuries. Her voice grew in richness and volume as she went on.

"And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them at the inn.

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flocks by night.

"And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

"And the angel said to them, Fear not: for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all the people.

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

"Mother, how beautiful your voice is. It—it sounds just like music." Robin, a slender boy of twelve was speaking, and his own tones were tremulous with emotion.

"It is the beauty and simplicity of the story, Robin, which you feel. One can almost see and hear as they read—Mary and Joseph—and—and the Christ Child."

There was silence in the room for a minute. Again Robin was the first to speak: "I—I wish I could go like the shepherds and adore Him," he said, his blue eyes shining.

"Robin, that isn't possible for us now, but we can show our love for him in many other ways at Christmas. By being thoughtful and kind, by making others happy, by remembering those who are in need." Mrs. Marsdale reached out and patted her son's blond head as she read:

"And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

"And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into Heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord had made known to us.

"And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the Babe lying in a manger."

So intend were the family, so wrapped up in the beauty and absorbing interest of the story, that James Marsdale stood in their midst before they knew it.

"Oh, dad!" Robin cried, "Mother has been reading about the coming of the Christ Child—about the shepherds—and—and—everything. I wish you had been here."

"I wish I had," James Marsdale replied, as he lifted Robin in his arms. "I can never forget the beautiful picture you made as I entered. All of you listening, and—and mother's beautiful voice falling like music in the room." He smiled with rare understanding at his wife as he finished speaking.

Helen Marsdale returned his smile. "We shall wait for you next year," she said; "this beautiful hour is going to be a part of our Christmas for always."

Splendid Scene of Action in Dallas-San Angelo Game

Red Ewing, wild and wooly ball carrier for Dallas Tech, is shown skirting San Angelo's left end during the spell-binder that set fans berserk at San Angelo Saturday. Dallas Tech won the game 13 to 7, and had a close call doing it, for the San Angelo Bobcats fought every step of the way, giving no quarter and providing a constant threat to Tech's state championship hopes. Notice at the right of the picture how the Tech man is effectively blocking out the Bobcat who seeks to down Ewing. Of the two men, only one hand of the Tech man touches the ground.
